Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from A Woman s Affection Tis now about fifteen years since I am in the employ of Mr. Harley Dighby, and during this time I have seen many a ups and downs in every day business life. I have learned many secrets which can only be understood by a good business man, and, when used properly are bound to succeed. Ever since I knew Mr. Dighby, he seemed to be one of the most successful merchants in London. Never knew him to be extravagant; never knew him to be interested in speculation; never knew him to be short in his accounts; never knew of his having serious losses; - yet, at present, his financial affairs are in such a state that he cannot possibly straighten them without calling on some of his friends for assistance, and by so doing loosen his credit, or perhaps astonish half of London by suspending business. And then, what will be his future but a life of shame and misery, yes, if not a life of imprisonment, for which not even the lowest living man could have the slightest desire to taste of. How mean and miserable he must be, with such an outlook before himself, and too what a prospect there is for his daughter. Unhappy are the great, for they may fall, fall a depth from which they may never be able to rise again, and experience a full measure of misery, of which no poor man can possibly imagine. Strange how some of the most successful men will, and must come to ruin. It is a mystery to me how this - Enter Mr. Potter. Potter. Good morning...
