Crown, 2013. Book Condition: New. Brand New, Unread Copy in Perfect Condition. A+ Customer Service! Summary: "Westwick and Neushul's focus on the cultural and socio-economic illuminates hidden forces that are rarely discussed by even the most knowledgeable surfersFor every enthusiast killing time before the next big swell, the authors provide a satisfying immersion into the story of how a near-extinct Polynesian pastime came back to conquer the beach." Publishers Weekly " The World in the Curl is the most scholarly and comprehensive history of the sport born on the waves of Hawaii Surfing." Fred Hemmings, Hawaii's 1968 world champion surfer and a founding father of pro surfing "Surf's up! And so is this history and celebration of the surfing art, at once academically impressive yet alive with the passion and insight of two surfer dude professors of a kindand a bookthat only California can produce." Kevin Starr, University of Southern California "Every surfer on earth ought to buy and read this book. From the motorized "warboards" developed by the US military in WW2, to the hidden racist evil of legendary surfer Mickey Dora, The World in the Curl offers that greatest of gifts to any sub-culture: taking it seriously, treating our great sport as a legitimate lens through which to view human experience in, on, and around the oceans for the last thousand years." Daniel Duane, author of Caught Inside "Although not often recognized as such, the ocean is by far the planet's largest wilderness. Surfing takes place at a frontier of civilization. Peter Westwick and Peter Neushul make their book come alive because they have walked (and swum!) the talk. It's an inside, honest, sometimes painful, story. Surfing provides the matrix, but there is broader and deeper dimension to this book. It's a cultural, environmental, and sociological history of...
